

This superb villa, built in 1979, is accessed via a South facing entrance naya which has conveniently been glazed with concertina windows and which offers a comfortable sitting area, complete with large picture windows wonderfully displaying the views stretching over the countryside towards Jávea's coastline with a glimpse of the sea. This room can be used throughout the year; in the summer, the windows open to offer a cool breeze, whilst in winter, the lower sun ensures the room is kept bright and warm. There is a very cosy living room which features a wood-burning stove and traditional windows and also an office area. The fully-equipped kitchen was renovated fairly ...
